- (i) The Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development ("OECD") adopted a convention on combating bribery of foreign public officials in international business transactions, effective 15 February 1999 (the "Convention"). The Convention requires contracting states to enact legislation relating to combating bribery of foreign public officials in international business transactions. Such legislation has been passed in Israel and, separately, in the United States as the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act ("FCPA") and in the United Kingdom in the U.K Bribery Act 2010. These and other anti-corruption laws are herein referred to collectively as the "Anti-Corruption Laws" and, together with the Convention, as the "Anti-Corruption Laws and Principles"
- (ii) The Anti-Corruption Laws and Principles prohibit the corrupt payment, offer, promise, or authorization of the payment or transfer of anything of value or any benefit, directly or indirectly, to any Government Official, or to any other person while knowing that all or some portion of the payment, thing of value, or benefit will be offered, given, promised, or passed on to a Government Official. Certain of the Anti-Corruption Laws and Principles also prohibit commercial bribery—i.e., the payment or transfer of anything of value, any benefit, or any advantage, directly or indirectly, to any private person with the intention to improperly obtain or retain business or any business advantage or to improperly influence the recipient's behavior.

Failure to notify the Company under this section shall constitute a material breach of the Contract by Third Party entitling Company to terminate the Contract under Paragraph 15 of this Schedule.

12. Annual Certification

In its sole discretion, Company may require that Third Party complete an annual certification or provide some other form of assurance of compliance with this Schedule.
